If you are entering into these General Terms on behalf of the Customer, you represent that you have the authority to bind Customer.

Please see Section 15 for a list of Definitions of Capitalized terms not otherwise defined herein.

Customer uses such licenses at their own risk with no support, indemnification or warranties and subject to the warranty disclaimer in section 8.

5. License Metric Limits.

- 5.1 For licenses based on daily index volume limits, Customer should not exceed the purchased daily index volume more than a maximum of five times in a rolling 30 day period, up to no more than a maximum of two times the volume of their contracted daily index volume limit in aggregate over such period. If the Customer exceeds the daily index volume limits five times or more in any such period, or if Customer exceeds any other License Metric Limitation not based on daily index volume, Customer, at Graylog’s request, shall negotiate in good faith with Graylog on appropriate amendments to the pricing and other relevant terms of these General Terms that are consistent with Customer’s actual use of the Software. Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, Customer acknowledges and agrees that exceeding the License Metric Limits (including the daily index volume limits) constitutes a material breach of these General Terms.

Additional GCU’s can be purchased at any time within a contracted Platform Subscription Term, provided customer’s account remains current.

- 10.3. Effect of Infringement Claim. If an Infringement Claim is or, in Graylog’s reasonable belief, is likely to be asserted, (a) Graylog may require Customer to discontinue use of the Software immediately and Customer shall comply with such requirement; and (b) Graylog will, at its sole option, either (i) procure for Customer the right to use and exercise its rights with respect to the Software or Documentation or affected part thereof as provided in these Terms; (ii) replace the Software or Documentation or affected part thereof with other non-infringing products or (iii) modify the Software or Documentation or affected part thereof to make it not infringing while retaining substantially similar functionality; or (c) if the remedies set forth in clause (b) are not commercially feasible, as determined by Graylog in its sole discretion, terminate these Terms, in whole or in part, and the licenses granted pursuant to it, and refund to Customer the portion of prepaid Fees that relate to the remaining portion of the then-current Subscription Term.

Upon any termination of a Graylog enterprise license, Graylog also owns any derivative results from the enterprise functionality. Such results will be deleted from Customer's networked environment and no longer used by Customer following termination of the Graylog enterprise license. In the event of a termination of a Graylog enterprise license, in addition to the foregoing deletion/return requirements, Customer will delete and discontinue its use of any Graylog enterprise functionality, including any derivative results and/or allow Graylog's support team to deprovision the Graylog enterprise software that contain such derivative results.

Any purported assignment in violation of this section shall be null and void. These Terms shall be binding on all permitted assignees.
- 14.11. Severability. The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision of these Terms shall not affect the validity or enforceability of any other provision of these Terms.
- 14.12. Waiver. The failure of either Party to enforce at any time the provisions of these Terms, or the failure to require at any time performance by the other Party of any of the provisions of these Terms, shall in no way be construed to be a present or future waiver of such provisions, nor in any way affect the ability of either Party to enforce each and every such provision thereafter. The express waiver by either Party of any provision, condition or requirement of these Terms shall not constitute a waiver of any future obligation to comply with such provision, condition, or requirement.
- 14.13. Entire Agreement. These Terms, including any and all exhibits attached hereto, is the entire agreement of the Parties and supersedes any prior representations, agreements, negotiations, or understandings between them, whether written or oral, with respect to the subject matter hereof.
